

A BOSTON BANK CLOSES ITS DOORS

The Central National in Hands of Receiver.
CLOSED BY THE COMPTROLLER

It Then Lost $350,000 and No Dividends Were Paid for Thirteen Years—Statements as to the Effect of the Collapse.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—The Central National Bank of this city did not open for business today, the comptroller of the currency having ordered the bank examiner to close its doors and take charge of its business. The closing of the bank is said to be due to excessive loans and a lack of quick assets. An appeal for aid was made to the Boston clearinghouse association, but the committee did not deem it advisable to assist the bank.

The bank is among the smaller institutions of the city. It was organized in 1877 with a capital of $500,000. Its deposits aggregate $2,500,000, and it is believed that this amount can be paid in full without an assessment on the stockholders. Just before 3 o'clock today the following notice was posted on the bank's doors: "Closed by order of the comptroller of the currency."

Inquiry at the bank elicited the information that the comptroller had ordered Bank Examiner Neal to take charge as temporary receiver. No one could be found who had authority to discuss the condition of the bank.

The failure of negotiations for the Elliot National Bank to liquidate the Central National is understood to have contributed to the failure. It is said that the bank never fully recovered from a blow it received 20 years ago, when, with the Pacific Bank, which failed at that time, it was involved in the collapse of the Lebanon Springs Railroad in Vermont. The Central Bank then lost $350,000 and an assessment of about 100 per cent was made up on the stockholders and no dividends were paid for 13 years.

The failure of the bank showed that the liquidation proceedings were not progressing favorably. A meeting of the Central Bank stockholders was called for Dec. 10 to approve the plan for the liquidation of the bank. Upon investigation, however, the stockholders of the Elliot Bank and its board of directors refused to accept the assets of the Central Bank as security for any guarantee of the $350,000 deposits.

By the last report of the comptroller of the currency the bank's standing was as follows: Resources—Loans and discounts, $2,073,788; overdrafts, $40,825; United States bonds, $15,190; stocks, securities and other assets, $110,122; due from banks, $666,583; exchanges for clearing, $110,122; specie, $10,126; legal tender notes, $10,000; redemption fund, $1,000. Liabilities—Capital stock, $500,000; surplus fund, $100,000; undivided profits, $129,633; bank notes outstanding, $349,990; due to banks, etc., $87,721; deposits, $2,073,788; United States deposits, $50,000; bills payable, $99,999.

CLOSED BY THE COMPTROLLER.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A statement concerning the closing of the Central National Bank of Boston was issued at the comptroller of the currency's office today. It says the bank was closed by direction of the acting comptroller of the currency as a result of a conference by telephone late last night with Examiner Neal and Examiner of Boston. The acting comptroller has appointed William E. Neal as temporary receiver.

The statement recites that the bank was examined by the receiver and the examiner's report showed losses equal to surplus and undivided profits then on hand. There was no evidence of insolvency. Certain conditions were then imposed upon the bank with view of providing for the liquidation and securing the bank against further loss on its loans. Later it was determined to place the bank in liquidation by having another bank in Boston take over its assets and assume its deposit liabilities. It was thought that arrangements to this end were being successfully carried out until the acting comptroller received a dispatch from Examiner Neal yesterday that efforts to liquidate had failed. The failure, the statement says, is due to losses sustained. There has been no apparent dishonesty on the part of the officers of the bank so far as the records of the comptroller's office show.

BACK TO THE MINES OF INFORMATION

BARNEY FRAUENTHAL

Barney Frauenthal will resume charge of the bureau of information at Union Station either Saturday or Sunday. He has been absent from the information bureau window for four months.

Mr. Frauenthal took an extended vacation in order to make the race for railroad commissioner on the Republican ticket.

Now that he went down with the rest of his party's candidates, though he polled a creditable vote, Barney's friends are glad to welcome him back into official harness.

CHARLES F. JOY FOR POSTMASTER

He and J. H. Rabe Have Been Suggested.

BAUMHOFF TO FIGHT HARD FRIENDS SAY HE WILL BE HIS OWN SUCCESSOR.

Presence of Departmental Investigators Is Setting the Political Pot to Bubbling With Hopes for the Hungry.

Republican politicians are as busy sending applications and endorsements for the postmastership to Washington as if the President had already decided to remove or not reappoint Frederick W. Baumhoff, collector of the post office at St. Louis.

The presence of a departmental investigating committee in St. Louis to inquire into charges filed against Mr. Baumhoff has largely to do with the activity of the politicians. Six months ago the politicians believed that Mr. Baumhoff would be appointed on the showing he made as a postmaster, comparative reports ranking his office first in excellence among the large offices of the city.

Even after the charges were filed no other candidates announced themselves. The opposition was waiting to see if the department would act. Now that the department has acted and its agents are sifting the evidence against the charges, the other candidates and their friends are making a different tactic. They seem to feel that there is hope now for a new postmaster. A new postmaster would have more patronage to distribute than any Republican in St. Louis has now or is likely to have in any other post office in the immediate command of the party.

Hence the hurried filing of applications and the scurrying about for endorsements of their candidates by the party workers.

Rabe and Joy
Are Names Mentioned.
J. H. Rabe is the only man so far who has announced his candidacy in St. Louis. He is a principal of a public school and is not identified prominently with the local Republican machine. But there are other candidates and unnamed candidates. Prominent among the latter seems to be Charles F. Joy.

KINDERGARTEN CLASS OF MOTHERS

Sat in a Circle and Sang at Field School.

TEACHER TOLD THEM STORIES THEY HELD HANDS, BUT DIDN'T PLAY "LONDON BRIDGE."

Some Brought Their Babies, but These Were Cared for by a Young Woman—While the Mothers Were Taught How to Care for Elder Children.

BY ROSE MARION.

Forty West End women stood about in a ring and sang kindergarten songs at the Eugene Field school yesterday afternoon. They also listened to kindergarten stories and enjoyed the pictures on the walls and the flowers in the window boxes.

They were the guests of Miss Elin P. Wherry, director of the kindergarten. Several days ago she sent out invitations to the mothers of the children in the kindergarten and primary rooms to come to a mothers' meeting. The time fixed was Thursday at 3 o'clock.

At that time the mothers were received in the kindergarten room while the children were permitted to go home.

Some of the mothers brought their babies with them. These were taken into an adjoining room, where they were entertained by one of the kindergarten volunteers, Miss Ruby Carter. While their mothers were learning kindergarten ways they played with blocks under the direction of Miss Carter.

MOTHERS SAT IN CIRCLE.
Instead of kindergarten chairs one of larger size were placed for the guests. They were set about in a ring, just as the small ones are every day. In this circle the mothers were seated.

Miss Selma Katter, a volunteer teacher, sang "Little Mother." Principal John S. Collins addressed the mothers upon the relations between the kindergarten and the primary room.

Miss Gecks, teacher of the primary room, also spoke upon the subject, telling of the value kindergarten training is to children entering the primary room.

Miss Katter sang the song "Bird's Nest," and illustrated it with gestures. Then the mothers were told a story just as their children are each day. The story was a mother's story called "The Open Door."

Miss Josephine Sherry told the story. It is the story of a child who has an open door between her room and her mother's room. It is a story illustrative of the relations that should exist between parent and child, and was beautifully told by the young kindergarten teacher.

Miss Mary McCulloch, supervisor of kindergartens, spoke to the mothers about Thanksgiving. After she was through the mothers all stood up. Miss Ada Culp played the air of "The Happy Family" song, and the mothers sang it with gestures.

This completed the exercises. The sunny room was decorated with vases of carnations and roses. On the boards were some of the drawings Miss Mildred Way, another of the volunteer teachers.

The mothers' motto was also on the board in large letters.

God help us mothers to live right. And may our homes love and truth unfold. Since life for us no lofter aim can hold Than leading little children to the good.

When the children came back to their kindergarten Friday morning one little fellow was anxious to know what all those A, B, C's meant on the blackboard.

Some of the mothers present were: Mrs. W. A. Eckert, Mrs. L. W. Allen, Mrs. C. Hoepner, Mrs. W. Gardner, Mrs. Louisa Berner, A. Robt. W. C. Johnston, William Stein, Marshall P. Drury, C. S. Ahe, Lon E. Levy, R. H. Elliott, Charles H. Smith, Theodore Brown, Minnie Slayton, Carl Bessie L. Russell, Louis Block, G. Holmes Murphy, Pierre Garneau.

PENSION AGENT SENTENCED

Judge Adams Denounces John W. Holleck as a Robber of Widows and Orphans.

After an intensely bitter and caustic statement of his conception of the gravity and enormity of the crimes of John W. Holleck, a farmer and alleged pension agent, who lives in the vicinity of Bloomington, Mo., this morning Judge Adams sentenced the defendant to the heaviest punishment for a like offense ever recorded in the United States District Court.

He gets two years at hard labor in the Missouri penitentiary on one count; two years additional on a second count; three years additional on a third information and three years still on a fourth count. The sentence totals ten years.

Holleck was charged with making false pension affidavits; with collecting his fee before the claim had been allowed; with forging the names of witnesses; and with overcharging his clients. He pleaded guilty to the once count and the pension chamber to one count, and the pension department presented proof of all the others.

It is stated that Holleck had collected one-third of the total benefits a widow or orphan would receive, and then swore he was dead, and had committed other reprehensible acts.

Before passing sentence Judge Adams reviewed the measures taken by the United States government to provide for the soldiers who had served their country and their widows, and then denounced Holleck's practices as the most contemptible that had ever come under his observation.

He called him a robber of widows and orphans, and declared he would make such an example of him that none other of his kind would desire to be brought into his court. Holleck stated that he had been married since his arrest and the court asked him who in the world he could find who would have him and he in such a predicament, and when the judge inquired if she was somebody connected with the fraud, too, the prosecution showed that she had been receiving a pension but for some reason payment had been stopped on it.

Chasem Bernath Gets Divorce.
Chasem Michael Bernath was granted a divorce from Saraita Bernath this morning by Judge Ferriss on the ground of desertion. The decree was given by default.

Bernath said he married his wife in Hungary, July 25, 1896, and that she deserted him four days later. He came to this country and sent her money to defray the expenses of the journey here, but she has failed to materialize.

Bernath said he had known his wife only a day or so before the marriage and that he sued for her hand upon the recommendation of his neighbors, who said she would make him a good wife.

SHE ASKS PAY FROM PUPILS

Teacher in Crow School Offers to Tutor Pupils Who Have Been Ad-vanced.

Comment has been aroused among pupils of the Wayman Crow School at Bell and Channing avenues because of the reported action of Miss Margaret McDonald, teacher of room No. 2, in offering to instruct pupils advanced from a lower room at the rate of 50 cents an hour.

It is asserted that Miss McDonald contended that the pupils promoted were not up to the standard of proficiency, particularly in history.

Among those promoted were: Floyd Parmeter, 343 West Belle place; Emma Olney, 3624 Cook avenue; Scott Heuer, Grover Thaxton, Charles O'Haver and Sidney Heet.

Principal Cook, it is said, advanced the pupils in order to make room in the lower class. He said Friday that he had not heard of Miss McDonald's offer, but even though true, he saw nothing wrong in it; that 50 cents was indeed a very reasonable price for a lesson lasting two or three hours. The fact that Miss McDonald was giving the special lessons on Saturday, he admitted, would make such an offer extremely objectionable.

H. G. Knapp Sues for $3075 as Commission for Selling Stock.

Harry G. Knapp filed suit against Joseph L. Hanley Friday for $3075 alleged to be due him as his portion of the commission on the sale of 107 shares of Wiggins Ferry stock last April for Charles Mullikin.

Knapp says Mullikin jointly commissioned them to sell the stock and paid Hanley $3075. Knapp says he has demanded his half of this sum from Hanley, but that the latter declines to pay it.

HYPNOTIST MAY BURY WIFE.

Effort to Enjoin an Exhibition Fails in Courts.

EMPORIA, Kan., Nov. 14.—Judge Madden in the district court last night decided that a man had the right to bury his wife alive. The case was the city of Emporia against Prof. Vanora and others, an injunction being asked to prohibit the professor from giving an exhibition of hypnotism by burying his wife under the ground and leaving her buried six days.

The city alleged the exhibition endangered life. The hypnotists averred the city had no right to draw a distinction between this kind of exhibition and any other.

Milwaukee Bank Seeks to Recover Note for $2750.

The First National Bank of Milwaukee began suit against the St. Louis American League Baseball Co. in the circuit court Friday morning to recover the face value of a negotiable promissory note for $2750, said to have been executed at St. Louis, Ill., by the well-known American League manager.

The plaintiff alleges that the note was executed Aug. 8 last in Milwaukee, Wis., by the St. Louis American League Baseball Co. and that it was transferred to the First National Bank of Milwaukee. The plaintiff claims that the note was presented to the defendant for payment and that it was refused. The plaintiff claims that the defendant is liable for the full amount of the note.

GIRL WAS FINED $500.

Judge Sidener Sent Nora Maurer to Industrial Home.
Nora Maurer, 15 years old, was fined $500 in the First District Police Court Friday on a charge of disturbing the peace of her father, John Maurer, who is employed in the city street department. Maurer testified that his daughter would not obey him, that she used bad language and remained away from home at night.

The girl declared that her father forbade her to enter their home, 2708 South Broadway, and that she had slept in the cellar since Tuesday.

Judge Sidener fined the girl $500 and ordered her committed to the Girls' Industrial Home, at Chillicothe, Mo.

RAILROAD RAISES WAGES $4,250,000

PENNSYLVANIA GIVES EASTERN EMPLOYEES HAPPY SURPRISE.

58,000 MEN, BENEFICIARIES

It Is Believed President Cassatt Also Has Something Good for Western Employees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Whether or not the Pennsylvania road will advance wages west of Pittsburgh also cannot be learned, but the general belief is that something handsome is in store for the employees there.

It will cost the road $4,250,000 to pay the voluntary advance of 10 per cent on the annual wages of the employees of the road east of Pittsburgh ordered yesterday. The advance represents a 10 per cent increase in the salaries of $6,000 employees, dating from the first of the present month.

How well President Cassatt planned his surprise is shown by the fact that not even the slightest rumor of the transaction leaked out. It was a joyful surprise, indeed, when the news was flashed from point to point over the telegraph lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The superintendents were first to receive
it. They gave it to the heads of departments, and, by them, it was passed in conspicuous places. Great rejoicing was had among the subordinates when they read the bulletin.

The official notification stated that all employees east of Pittsburgh and Erie who receive salaries of $300 per month or less will be the recipients of 10 per cent increase, to date from Nov. 1.

It is estimated that the Pennsylvania Railroad has in its employ on the lines and in the offices east of Pittsburgh and Erie at the present time 60,000 men, and at least 58 per cent of these are affected by the increase.

Under normal circumstances only 45,000
men would be employed, but the tremendous increase in freight traffic has necessitated the employment of at least 15,000 more.

Terminal and Rock Island Railway
Seek Condemnation of River Front
Property for Approaches.

The Terminal and Rock Island railroads will institute suit in the circuit court within a few days for the condemnation of all the property on the east side of Main street, from Washington avenue south to Chouteau avenue, taking in all the holdings
east of Main street to the river frontage.

The papers of condemnation are in the

THE JILTING OF WILLIS BAILEY

Explaining Why the Kansas
Governor Is Unmarried.

ROMANCE OF COLLEGE DAYS

ANOTHER FELLOW WON THE LIGHT OF HIS EYES.

The Illinois University Town of Champaign Was the Scene of Bailey's Courtship and Failure and It Happened 20 Years Ago.

WANTED—A wife to take charge of $70,000
executive mansion at Kansas state capital.
WILLIS J. BAILEY.
P. S.—No Illinois girls need apply.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—A postscript something like the above will undoubtedly be subscribed if Governor-elect Bailey of Kansas is forced to adopt matrimonial-bureau
methods of advertising for a bride in order to pay an election bet—that he would marry
the girl who won the light of his eyes.

It is a story in which figure a charming "coed," a campus courtship, a devoted freshman, another fellow and the jilting of the freshman.

Mr. Bailey was the man who was jilted, and that may Chicago men who have known him since his college days is the reason why he is still a bachelor—which is the reason why a matrimonial bureau is needed for the new executive mansion.

The girl Willis Bailey courted, who promised to marry him and who might have been the wife of the present governor of the Sunflower state, is now the wife of a railroad man and they live in Florida. He was the successful rival. "The jilting of Bailey"

is part of the record of the University of Chicago. Among the men who were in the Champaign college with Bailey and who are now living in Chicago are: J. Edgar F. Neely, Frederick Kugler, 204 Clinton avenue, Oak Park; Attorney David Elmhurst,
E. M. McKay, principal of the Anderson
School; Archibald O. Coddington, principal of the Goudy School; John Farnon and score of others prominent in social and business life here.

Romance Recalled
by Alumni.

It was told to the "freshies" by the "sophs" and recalled by the alumni today, how stocky Willis Bailey had fallen head over heels in love with the girl, who was in her sophomore year, while Bailey was a freshman, while they met. He became her slave after the fashion of schoolboy lovers, her escort whenever she went to parties or hops in the shadowy moonlight it may have been that they plighted their troth, and before long the time came the graduation that was to take
Mr. Bailey out to Kansas to take charge of a large stock ranch which his father had secured—the engagement had been announced. Then the couple parted, he going west to grow up with the country, and many another young man has done; she remaining at Champaign to complete her university course.

For awhile the college-bred Kansas stockman who was destined to occupy the governor's seat in Topeka received letters from his fiancée the general tenor of which was:

"Will Bailey, won't you please come home."

All through vacation time the correspondence was kept up, and then school opened again for the girl and her new found beau.

Social life was livelier than ever in Champaign that winter, and the young man assigned himself to the duty of seeing that the girl did not miss any of the social affairs. He was not as handsome as Bailey, say classmates, but he may have had a winning manner.

Regard for

Willis Wanes.

Anyhow, later Willis Bailey, then a young ranchman, was riding along one of the regulation dusty roads which cut western Kansas up like a checkerboard. He had been to the postoffice and had received a long-expected letter. It was from her. He tore it open and read. His face fell. The horse, pressed no longer by the spur of the rider, checked its speed, and it there had been any one to hear they might have heard the man register a vow never again to trust a woman with his heart. Not long afterward he received the announcement of the marriage of his whom fiancée—to the other fellow.

Willis Bailey has never married.
This is the story which may have a bearing on Gov. Bailey's ante-election promise that he would wed if elected. If the girl hadn't broken off with him; if the "other fellow" had not won the light of his eyes;
if Mr. Bailey had not gone from Illinois to Kansas; if there were a dozen potential-ities which might have caused Willis J.
Bailey, class '82, U. of I., to be a husband and perhaps even a Chicago business man
instead of a Kansas governor.

Whether the memory of the sting left by the announcement of the marriage is still fresh in the mind of the western state executive is a question that has presented itself to a number of Chicagoans by the failure of Gov. Bailey to find a wife in Kansas to suit him.

Conditions

Made Easier.

Although the winner of the matrimonial election bet, who originally stipulated that he must marry a Kansas woman, has waived that condition and the governor is free to choose from any state in the union,
he still reports that he cannot find a wife
to be mistress of the $70,000 executive mansion.

Whether, remembering the past, he really wants to get married, is the question.
To this George L. Douglass, a lawyer
with an office in the Association building,
who was speaker in the Kansas legislature in 1890 while Mr. Bailey was a representative, makes the following defense of Gov.
Bailey:

"If Willis Bailey made a bet that he would marry if elected he is a man of his word and would go through fire and water to keep
it. Of course, the story of the bet may all be made out of whole cloth. But I knew him in Kansas and saw him lift himself from stock raising to statesmanship. I never knew him to fail to make good a promise."

What the Governor

Looks Like.

Gov. Bailey is known to many Chicago-
ans. He was the guest of honor at a Kansas reunion at the Union League Club when he came to this city as a delegate to the trust conference. A description of the man who is seeking a wife with an unlimited field to choose from is given as follows by his admirers:

Height, 5 feet 9 inches; complexion, light;
hair, light brown; eyes, blue. Rather "stocky," round-faced, good-natured and genial.

But Gov. Bailey has had one experience with the fair sex in Illinois—yes, he thinks once in a while, thank you, all the while prove of little interest to Chicago girls who might otherwise wish to become candidates for his heart and hand.

There are two women of 15 years and over for every man of that age in the State of Kansas, says a local authority.

She Will Raise the Flag of Divoll School

MISS MARGARET JOHNSON.

1000 CHILDREN WILL SING

Mammoth Chorus at Flag Raising of the Divoll School This Afternoon.

A chorus of 1000 children sing at the flag-
raising of the Divoll School this afternoon.
The children have been under the careful supervision of Miss Malloy of Room 3 for the last few weeks and are prepared to give a perfect rendition of their part of the program.

A flag-pole 45 feet high has been erected in the west yard of the school, which is on Twenty-ninth and Dayton streets, and the flag will be hoisted at 2:30 p. m. This afternoon. The flag will be the chief speaker of the day, with a recitation entitled "America."

The Divoll school will then sing
"The Star-Spangled Banner," and Miss Margaret
Johnson will raise the flag.

The pupils will conclude the ceremony by singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."
Margaret Johnson is one of the graduates of this January, and the honor of raising the flag will be given to her because of excellence in studies.

WOMEN BETTORS WANT MONEY BACK

SUE RACE TRACKS FOR THEIR LOSSES THIS SEASON.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The race horses cost Miss Beatrice Halloran, pretty and only 25 years old, $1500 this season. She is one of a dozen women losers who have employed a lawyer, now that the season is over, to get their money back.

Mrs. Charlotte Weyant, a wealthy widow, has brought six suits to recover $4500 lost
by her son, King Weyant, on the different tracks this summer.

A woman wealthy and socially prominent is to sue for $20,000 lost by bad betting at the tracks. The lawyer will not disclose this woman's name, but said today that she and those of at least a dozen other women who had lost from $1000 upward would be brought as soon as the two suits already filed were decided on precedents.

These suits reflect the widespread gambling mania among women that has been a feature of the betting at the race tracks this summer. Women have been among the steepest losers, although they have not gone in for as big amounts as some of the men.

Women, including both actresses and singers, have been at the track all season and sent their bets into the ring by the thousands, just like the veterans of the course.

Miss Halloran followed the races at all the tracks this year, beginning at Aqueduct.
She went to Saratoga and lost there varying luck and once or twice was well ahead, but when she arrived a few days ago at Aqueduct she was $1800 out, according to the story she told her lawyer.

SHIP IN DEAD CALM WANT MONEY BACK

REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE OF PACIFIC LINER IN TYPHOON.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Storm-racked and scared, with her superstructure smashed and broken, the Japanese liner America Maru arrived yesterday from the Orient. The vessel bore many marks attesting the violence of the whirling typhoon against which she battled in the China seas. Her rails were bent and twisted and the side of the hospital was stove in.

The experience of the America Maru in the typhoon is almost without precedent.
Caught in the grip of the revolving wind-storm, she forced her way into the vortex and passed through the center, where a dead calm prevailed. Few ocean travelers have lived to relate the unusual experience of passing through the very heart of a typhoon.

The whirling cyclone caught the America
Maru on Oct. 7 one day after leaving Yokohama. The blow began about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and lasted until after midnight. It struck the vessel with hurricane force, blowing through the rigging and tearing at the superstructure. Seas broke on board fore and aft, sweeping the decks and flooding the stowage, with 700 Asiatic huddled together in great fear. A Japanese bathroom steward was caught by the flood and dashed with terrific force against the iron deck. He died instantly.

The storm passed and the America Maru lay toiling upon a troubled sea in a perfect calm, while the typhoon surrounded her like a towering wall. Then the vessel was again caught up in the maelstrom and for a second time the inmates of the stowage were crunched. The steam steering gear was carried away, adding to the danger.
For a time Capt. Going steered with the twin screws and then the land-locked gear was reported to be broken. The Japanese sailed: "It was the worst storm I have ever seen. The barometer dropped to 29.5, and the calm which we struck in the center of the revolving gale was a very unusual experience."

FOUND RARE AZTEC RELICS

American Archaeologist Discovers Cave by Means of Chart Copied From an Ancient Tablet.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, Nov. 14.—A remarkable story, duly authenticated, of the discovery of hidden Aztec treasures, has just been reported to the government authorities at Tepic by Rev. Pablo Martinez, the parish priest of Yescas.

The priest makes a statement which is corroborated by several reliable witnesses, that a party of Americans headed by an archeologist, who gave the name of Heverick, arrived at Yescas several weeks ago and went from there to the mountains accompanied by three Mexican guides.

The archeologist obtained his bearings by means of a chart which he claims to have copied from an Aztec stone tablet in Mexico City.

He found a vast cavern in the mountains. Immense stone images stood about this chamber.

In one end was a handsome altar above which burned a bright flame supplied by natural gas from a crevice in the wall. In a chamber adjoining this main temple was found a great store of ornaments and utensils belonging to the Aztecs or some other prehistoric race.

Twelve burrows were required to transport the articles from the cave to San Blas where they were shipped to San Francisco accompanied by the priest and some of the Americans.

As such articles cannot be removed from Mexico without the consent of the government, an investigation is in progress.

AN EASY WAY

To Keep Well.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all-important thing is to keep the stomach right and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wicheold gives pretty good advice on this subject. He says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal, and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets. My physician has advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, pepsines and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice."

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong. Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well-regulated household from Maine to California, and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Full sized pkgs. at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

MITCHELL'S PLEA FOR THE MINERS

Strong Case Presented to the Strike Commission.

EMPLOYMENT IS HAZARDOUS

THE UNION, HE SHOWS, IS SAFE-GUARD AGAINST STRIKES.

Its Recognition Does Not Mean Dictation, But Is a Guarantee of Peace and Fair Dealing for Its Membership at the Hands of Employers.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 14.—President Mitchell made a statement to the anthracite strike commission today.

Mr. Mitchell prefaced his statement with the hope that the commission would "succeed in establishing a relationship between the miners and operators that will insure peace and stability in the industry for an indefinite period."

After reciting the demands for increased pay for the miner, a shorter work day for the laborer, the weighing of the coal and an industrial agreement that the refusal of all of which led to the strike, Mr. Mitchell spoke as follows on the question of higher wages:

"Of the 147,000 men and boys employed in and around the mines, stripmines, washeries and breakers in the anthracite coal fields, 64,072, or 43 per cent, are employed on contract or piece work; $3,000, or 57 per cent, are employed by the hour, day, week or month. Of the 64,072 contract men, 37,804 are miners and 26,268 are miners' laborers."

Most Hazardous of All Employment.

The work of a miner's laborer is extremely hazardous; in fact, it is more dangerous than employment in any other important industry in the world. The number of persons killed and injured is greater than in any other industry. Each day the anthracite coal mines are in operation 2,500 persons lose their lives, and three times as many are maimed, and yet these men receive less wages annually than are received by men performing precisely similar work in other fields under more favorable and less hazardous conditions.

The number of years a man can retain his health and strength in this occupation is limited. If he escapes death or injury by falls or rock or coal, he cannot escape attacks of miners' asthma. There is scarcely a miner who has not contracted this malady. The miners are compelled to work in powder smoke, in foul air, many of them in water and their work is difficult and exhausting. Reputable insurance companies will not issue policies to this class of workmen, the risks are so great that the premiums would be prohibitive to men whose earnings are so low.

The entire 20 per cent which they demand as an increase in their wages would not suffice to carry an insurance of $100.

It seems but fair and just that wages paid these classes of workmen should be as high as those paid to skilled artisans in other industries. It is certainly not unjust to ask that these miners should receive as high wages as are paid to miners in the bituminous coal fields, in the silver and gold mines or in the iron ore and copper mines, all of which work is less hazardous than the work of the anthracite miner.

The bituminous workers receive in Pennsylvania an average of 40 per cent higher wages for eight hours work than are paid in the anthracite mines for 10 hours work.

Eight Hours Is the Standard Day.

In supporting the demand for the reduction of the hours of the day laborers, Mr. Mitchell showed that it amounted practically to a demand for 20 per cent increase of compensation for $3,000 men, or 57 per cent of all mine employees. Continuing he said: "The eight-hour day is the standard working day in the mining industry. Eight hours constitute a day's work in the coal mines of Great Britain, in all the silver, gold and copper mines and in the bituminous coal mines in the states of Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee, in Western Pennsylvania and the Indian Territory."

The reports of the U. S. geological survey demonstrate that more coal has been produced annually since the inauguration of the eight-hour work day than in any preceding year. Each mine produces more coal in the eight-hour day than it formerly produced in 10 hours, and there is no reason why the same results would not be obtained in the anthracite trade. The bituminous workers receive in Pennsylvania an average of 40 per cent higher wages for eight hours work than are paid in the anthracite mines for 10 hours work.

To Do Away With Discontent.

Defending the third demand that coal shall be weighed and paid for by weight and that the pound shall constitute a ton, Mr. Mitchell declared that the present method of measuring the coal produced by the miners in the Lackawanna, Wyoming and Lehigh regions has been the source of great discontent and has been the cause of many injustices imposed upon the miners and there can be no contentment among these workers until an honest system has been adopted. Paying for coal by the car or by a ton weighing from 2,500 to 3,000 pounds is a flagrant injustice. The cars have been made larger, more lopping is required and there has been a corresponding increase in the amount paid per car or per ton. The miners have been forced to conduct a constantly increasing amount of coal for which they received no additional compensation.

The miner should be paid for every pound of coal he mines that is sold by the operator. If $240 pounds constitute a ton when coal is sold to the consumer and when railroad companies are paid for transporting coal to market, what justice can there be in denying the miner the right to be paid for his labor upon the same basis.

The anthracite companies, not satisfied with an extra legal ton of from 2,700 to 2,800 pounds, have a system of docking through which they appropriate a portion of the miner's earnings. A miner is docked all the way from 50 to 100 pounds upon a car, as a penalty for loading impurities for which he has already been penalized to the extent of from 700 to 800 pounds in excess measures of weight; in other words he is punished twice for the same offense.

A system somewhat similar, but less unjust, obtained in portion of the bituminous coal field many years ago, but the miners are now paid by weight upon the basis of a legal ton. They are not so intimidated but compelled by the operators to employ cheap workmen to see that the product of their labor is properly weighed and a correct record made thereof.

The Question of the Union.

Mr. Mitchell then took up the fourth demand of the miners for a trade agreement with the necessary machinery for the adjustment of local grievances. He outlined the history and policy of the United Mine Workers of America and explained that by its constitution the anthracite and bituminous mine workers had been united for the local government of local affairs.

"The only manner," said Mr. Mitchell, "in which the national organization is permitted to interfere is that, before a strike is announced, the national organization is permitted to send a representative to the local board of arbitration to see that the miners are properly represented."

operators are afforded a greater measure of protection against strikes than they would have under a separate and independent organization."

As to the responsibility of the Mine Workers Union, Mr. Mitchell said: "At the present time the United Mine Workers of America has contracts with the operators of fourteen states and districts, totaling the amount of miners shall receive per ton, the amount the various classes of labor shall receive per day, the number of hours which shall constitute a day's work and the methods and machinery for the adjustment of local grievances by joint conference with the mine owners. These are mutual contracts, which are advantageous to both miner and operator and protect the public against the effects of strikes."

"Reports of the United States government on strikes in the mining industry show that the number and duration of strikes has been materially reduced each year since the system of joint conference and mutual agreement has been introduced. Where the United Mine Workers of America is recognized and contracted with it assumes the responsibility of disciplining its members. The trade agreement has proved effective in restraining workmen from engaging in local or general strikes. There have been no strikes of any magnitude in any of the coal mining states in which trade agreements exist. We seek to establish the same method of adjusting wage differences in the anthracite."

Demand Made to Insure Peace.

"It is said that the competition between anthracite and bituminous coal is a reason on which the anthracite operators oppose a recognition of the miners' organization. That this objection is neither valid or consistent is clearly demonstrated by the fact that many of the railroads operated by the same men who control the anthracite coal and who have the stockholders of any of the anthracite coal companies to elect their own officers to perform the competing role."

"We demand recognition because we want that permanent peace and friendly relations can be best maintained through a trade agreement with the organization which our people have elected to join. Fully 90 per cent of the employees of the anthracite coal mines are members of the United Mine Workers of America. These men, from choice, they desire to retain their membership in it. It was the United Mine Workers of America that conferred with the President of the United States in relation to the submission of the issues involved in the coal strike to this commission; it was the United Mine Workers of America that declared the strike at an end; it was the United Mine Workers that sent the men back to work and it is the United Mine Workers of America that is pledged to accept the award of this commission."

"Failure to recognize the organization was the cause of the many local strikes against which operators and miners jointly complained. There have been many local strikes during the past year, the fault of which rests upon operators and miners alike. The miners, failing to secure redress for their wrongs (the companies refused to treat with their representatives) had no choice but to submit to injustice or inaugurate a strike."

"Recognition of the union does not mean dictation or interference by men not employed by the companies; it simply means that officers selected by the miners will exercise supervision over the organization or shall counsel with the miners workers as to how their trade affairs shall be conducted. The miners have as much right to select spokesmen to act for them, to present their grievances, to manage their affairs, as have the stockholders of any of the anthracite coal companies to elect their own officers to perform the competing role."

Mr. Mitchell concluded with a plea for the children. He said: "Our little boys should not be forced into the mines and breakers so early in life; our little girls should not be compelled to work in the mills and factories at an age when they should be in school. These children are the future citizens of our nation; their parents should be enabled to earn wages sufficiently high to give them at least a common school education, responsibilities that will ultimately devolve upon them. The wealth and the future of the nation are not to be measured by its palaces and millionaires, but rather by the enlightened contentment and prosperity of its millions of citizens who constitute the bone and sinew of our land."

Hearings Held in Courtroom.

The hearings are being held in the beautiful chamber of the state superior court. The seven commissioners have seats on the bench. In front of them are three long tables, one for President Mitchell and his attorneys, one for the lawyers of the coal companies and the third for the attorneys of the independent operators.

Judge Gray announced that a sufficient number of the parties to the hearing had appeared to prepare for the hearing, and that the commission would hear the representatives of the miners first. President Mitchell said he would file a further statement on Monday in reply to further allegations of the operators. John T. Lenahan of Wilkesbarre, on behalf of the non-union men, inquired of the commission what course the proceedings would take with respect to them. Judge Gray answered that that was a question which would have to be considered.

Mr. Wolverton asked the other side to give the operators at least one day's notice indicating the colliers from which employees will be called as witnesses, so that the mine owners can be prepared to examine them. Mr. Darrow, for the miners, agreed to the suggestion. Mr. Darrow then called for the regular procedure and Mr. Wolverton asked that the miners present their case. The request was immediately carried out and President Mitchell arose and addressed the commission, making the statement given above.

Responding to a question by Judge Gray, Mr. Darrow said the miners would at the outset put on some witnesses and that he would call Mr. Mitchell first.

Before Mr. Mitchell took the stand it was agreed that all witnesses should be put under oath. Mr. Mitchell was then sworn. His testimony was largely an elaboration of points made in his statement.

PAUL TIETJENS.

The old proverb that "a prophet is never without honor save in his own country," finds fresh illustration in the case of Paul Tietjens, the young St. Louis composer, who is responsible for the score of "The Wizard of Oz," the new musical extravaganza that comes to the Olympic Theater on Sunday night. Against the consent of his parents and the advice of his teachers, young Tietjens determined about a year ago to abandon the career of a professional pianist, in which he had already achieved fame, and give vent to his inspiration as a composer of original music. With confidence in his own talent for this new field, Tietjens went to Chicago, where he chanced to form the acquaintance of Manager Hamlin of the Grand Opera House, who was planning the production of an elaborate musical and spectacular extravaganza to hold the boards of the city during the summer months. Manager Hamlin took an immediate interest in the young composer and asked him to submit a score for "The Wizard of Oz," the production in preparation. In less than three weeks young Tietjens returned to the manager's office with a score for "The Wizard" that found prompt acceptance.

The success of the extravaganza, which ran all summer to immense audiences in Chicago, was, of course, stimulating to young Tietjens, both in an artistic and a pecuniary way, and with the royalties accruing to him from his success he is now on the water bound for Vienna, where he intends to spend the winter in study and the pursuit of his new vocation.

An amusing fact in connection with the success of "The Wizard of Oz" has been the self-complacent way in which the Chicago critics have praised Tietjens' score. During the Civil war the fire in the city was so-called copperheads were the work of the city. Tietjens was born in St. Louis and gained his first encouragement to launch upon a musical career under Marcus Epstein, director of the Beethoven Conservatory. Mr. Epstein found in him not only an apt pupil but a youth of intuitive gifts and originality. After Tietjens had played frequently in public as solo pianist, and also with Mr. Epstein and his symphony orchestra he suddenly won an established position among St. Louis musicians by his masterly rendering of the minor concerto of Rubinstein. His first incentive toward original composition was when Marcus Epstein asked him to try his skill in making a piano arrangement of Sousa's "Cherry Blossom." How well Tietjens succeeded was best demonstrated by the enthusiasm of the house himself when he listened to it for the first time.

With flowers and ferns. Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lynch, Charles E. Harkness, Phil Kruse, Henry W. Harkness, Charles Schlemmer, Misses Hanson, Made Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Bents, W. A. Kieptier, W. H. Harkness, A. Meyer, Misses Edna Bents, Albert Buehner.

Miss Ella Mackie of 3913 Labadie avenue entertained a party of young people Sunday afternoon and evening. Among those present were:

Misses Katherine Moran, Helen Moran, Messrs. Lambert Murphy, Roy Bee, John Downing, Jr., Willie Rick.

Miss Clara Fletcher is at present in Kansas City, Mo., visiting her aunt, Mrs. L. A. Lambert.

Miss Carrie Cain of 1347 South Compton avenue is visiting relatives and friends in Chicago.

Miss Helen Sloan of Washington boulevard entertained a number of friends Friday evening.

The Morning Bude will meet at the home of Miss Kelmia Murtux, 3409 Lucas avenue, Nov. 21, at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Doran of 1938 Delmar boulevard have returned from Europe, after a stay of six months. They visited Italy, southern France, Scotland, London, Dublin and the lakes of Killarney, returning by way of the Cotageo event, recently.

Miss Gertrude Wagman of West Morgan street has returned to the city after an absence of five months, entirely recovered in health.

Lost for Three Hours.

A 3-year-old grandson of Thomas Davis, who lives a short distance north of Belleville, was lost for three hours in Belleville Thursday afternoon, but he had a nickel's worth of bananas and he didn't worry much.

Mr. Davis drove into town with the boy and stopped on West Main street in front of a fruit store. The child asked Mr. Davis for a nickel with which to buy bananas. Davis gave him a dime and told him to bring the other nickel back.

The boy purchased the bananas and got the change, but instead of going back toward his grandparent, started in the opposite direction.

GEN. YOUNG DEFENDS THE PHILIPPINE WAR

DECLARES AMERICAN ARMY HAS ACTED WITH CREDIT.

APPROVES VIGOROUS METHODS

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Gen. S. M. B. Young, who will succeed Lieutenant-General Miles, was to have spoken at a banquet last night to the foreign commercial representatives who came to Washington to attend the opening of the Chamber of Commerce, but he was compelled to leave the hall before he was called upon.

He had prepared a speech on "Our Soldiers in the Philippines." It is a vigorous defense of the army's conduct, and is, in part, as follows:

"The election is now past, and those who expected to gain political advantage by assailing the army have failed in their quest. And the results have buried that question forever as a political one, and I feel now that I can speak the truth about our soldiers without being accused of having political bias or defending them for political effect."

"During the Civil war the fire in the city was so-called copperheads were the work of the city. Tietjens was born in St. Louis and gained his first encouragement to launch upon a musical career under Marcus Epstein, director of the Beethoven Conservatory. Mr. Epstein found in him not only an apt pupil but a youth of intuitive gifts and originality. After Tietjens had played frequently in public as solo pianist, and also with Mr. Epstein and his symphony orchestra he suddenly won an established position among St. Louis musicians by his masterly rendering of the minor concerto of Rubinstein. His first incentive toward original composition was when Marcus Epstein asked him to try his skill in making a piano arrangement of Sousa's 'Cherry Blossom.' How well Tietjens succeeded was best demonstrated by the enthusiasm of the house himself when he listened to it for the first time."

"The knowledge became general of the very extensive looting and pillaging on the part of the soldiers in the Philippines. It is not known what defense or excuse the allied powers have for permitting the extensive looting and pillaging on their march to Pekin, unless they should say that they were not at war with China. In that case the soldiers can be acquitted of the charge of looting, and their looting becomes theft or robbery. I am proud to say that the American army officers and soldiers have been universally credited with exercising great care over the rights of property in China."

"If every accusation that was brought against these soldiers were true the story at home, these bachelors of their own nest, these soldiers after notoriety, these active disturbers of the peace of mind of the brave, patriotic wives and mothers, should have had the decency to present their wild fancies to the proper authorities instead of trying to convince the whole world that our own brothers and kindred were barbarians."

"I say that the American army is the humane army that ever waged war, and I could bear out my assertions by the Philippines and Chinese, and even the Spanish prisoners."

"To carry on war, disguise it as we may, is to be cruel, is to kill and burn, and kill, and again kill and burn."

"If it had not been for the intense desire of the American people to carry on an easy, persuasive war with the Filipinos, and the good faith in which the American officers acted to carry out that desire, the Philippine war would have ended in much less time. You feel confident that our little Japan friends would have stopped the pattering of the barefoot little brown brothers through the jungles in a very short time, and that the aggressive army of our German friends would have viewed with equanimity the burying alive of their friends, as did our soldiers in obedience to the home sentiment. I am satisfied that the coming census of the Philippine Islands will have on the list a great many more people and houses than there were before the war. I am not an advocate of war, either for conquest or revenge, nor as a means of making good good Indians or Filipinos, but when war has been decided on by our nation, I agree with the German Emperor's sentiment and believe that the army should leave such an impression that future generations would know we have been there."

In that case the soldiers can be acquitted of the charge of looting, and their looting becomes theft or robbery. I am proud to say that the American army officers and soldiers have been universally credited with exercising great care over the rights of property in China."

"If every accusation that was brought against these soldiers were true the story at home, these bachelors of their own nest, these soldiers after notoriety, these active disturbers of the peace of mind of the brave, patriotic wives and mothers, should have had the decency to present their wild fancies to the proper authorities instead of trying to convince the whole world that our own brothers and kindred were barbarians."

"I say that the American army is the humane army that ever waged war, and I could bear out my assertions by the Philippines and Chinese, and even the Spanish prisoners."

"If it had not been for the intense desire of the American people to carry on an easy, persuasive war with the Filipinos, and the good faith in which the American officers acted to carry out that desire, the Philippine war would have ended in much less time. You feel confident that our little Japan friends would have stopped the pattering of the barefoot little brown brothers through the jungles in a very short time, and that the aggressive army of our German friends would have viewed with equanimity the burying alive of their friends, as did our soldiers in obedience to the home sentiment. I am satisfied that the coming census of the Philippine Islands will have on the list a great many more people and houses than there were before the war. I am not an advocate of war, either for conquest or revenge, nor as a means of making good good Indians or Filipinos, but when war has been decided on by our nation, I agree with the German Emperor's sentiment and believe that the army should leave such an impression that future generations would know we have been there."

"The knowledge became general of the very extensive looting and pillaging on the part of the soldiers in the Philippines. It is not known what defense or excuse the allied powers have for permitting the extensive looting and pillaging on their march to Pekin, unless they should say that they were not at war with China. In that case the soldiers can be acquitted of the charge of looting, and their looting becomes theft or robbery. I am proud to say that the American army officers and soldiers have been universally credited with exercising great care over the rights of property in China."

BUTLER CONVICTED; SENTENCE 3 YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY

"We felt that they presented the case fairly."

The testimony of C. H. Wetmore, which we credited fully was more damaging to the defense than to the state. His statement that Butler had told him he offered Chapman a present was strong corroboration of the doctor's testimony."

BUTLER AT BREAKFAST.

It was after 7 this morning when Butler rose. He had retired at 10:30 last night after his son, Edward, Jr., had brought him the latest intelligence from the jury dormitory at the courthouse.

As he walked into the dining room of the Powers, he greeted acquaintances in a firm, almost cheery voice.

At the other end of the dining room sat Sheriff Bradford and the jury, who had almost finished breakfast. Butler took a seat where the faces of most of the jury-men were directly in his view.

Butler went direct from the hotel to the courtroom.

WON CASE AND LOST HAT

Circuit Attorney Folk's Headgear Blown Into Muddy Water After Trial.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COURTHOUSE, COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14.—Circuit Attorney Folk won a case and lost a hat this morning. The case was the most important of his career, but the hat was also a good one, and the circuit attorney's satisfaction is hence not unimpaired with regret.

The hat blew off into one of Columbia's deepest gutters as Mr. Folk was leaving the courthouse. It was followed, but too late to save it from being soaked and ruined in the muddy pool.

Congressman James Butler, standing on the courthouse portico, witnessed the mishap of the man who had just convicted his father. He pulled his own hat on more tightly.

A report issued by the census bureau places the quantity of the present crop of cotton which has been ginned up to Oct. 18 at 5,928,873 commercial bales, which is estimated to be a little more than 60 per cent of the entire crop. The figures were collected by the agents of the bureau, and 29,814 ginneries are represented by the returns.

PRINCESS VIROQUA, M. D.

Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound After Following Its Record For Years.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Health is the greatest boon bestowed on humanity and therefore anything that can restore lost health is a blessing. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a blessing to State and Nation. It cures her mothers and daughters and makes them well and strong."

Practicing Physician and Lecturer.

"For fifteen years I have noted the effect of your Vegetable Compound in curing special diseases of women. I know of nothing superior to your ovarian trouble, barrenness, and it has prevented hundreds of dangerous operations where physicians claimed it was the only chance to get well. Ulceration and inflammation of the womb has been cured in two or three weeks through its use, and as I find it purely an herbal remedy, I unhesitatingly give it my highest endorsement."

POISONED FROG AWED DEFENDANT

Strychnine From Alleged Victim's Liver Given to It.

JURY WATCHED DEATH AGONIES

ACCUSED MAN COLLAPSED UNDER THE GREAT STRAIN.

Doctor Explained That the Sufferings Endured by the Amphibian Were Exactly Like Those Murdered Boys Passed Through.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 14.—Strychnine, taken from the liver of John Coffin, the boy he is charged with murdering, was injected into a frog at the trial of Paul Woodward, and he was compelled to witness the death struggles, in every respect similar to those experienced by his alleged victims.

Under the dramatic force of the scene he collapsed completely. All the nerve that had stood by him since the finding of the bodies of young Coffin and his boy chum, Price Jennings, vanished.

A large frog was produced, and with the aid of an assistant Dr. Marshall injected strychnine under its skin. Then it was put on a plate and covered with a glass bowl. Woodward watched the proceedings with a sickly smile, and the silence in the courtroom was unbroken for several minutes, when the frog was noticed to be in pitiable spasms and convulsions. Woodward tried to continue to smile, but he could not. He looked appealingly at his counsel and almost continually moistened his lips with his tongue.

The poisoned frog finally turned over on its back, which Dr. Marshall explained to the jury was characteristic of the results of strychnine poisoning, whether in animals or men.

Arched like a bow the frog lay, resting on its head and hind legs. No other part of the body touched the plate, and between the convulsions and spasms the middle of the back was raised from the plate fully an inch.

Dr. Marshall said this was also characteristic of the human body when strychnine was administered. The victim would support himself by the back of the head and heels.

Woodward sat motionless and then looked from side to side, as though for some way of escape. He finally sank back limp, and those who watched him thought he had fainted. With an effort he again sat upright after a moment's whispered conversation with his counsel.

Soon the frog was dead. The bodies of John H. Coffin, aged 11 years, and Price Jennings, 14 years, were found Oct. 1 in a weed-grown field. The boys had been missing from their homes for several days. There were marks of violence that led the police to believe they had been strangled to death, but later poison was suspected.

Paul Woodward, a 21-year-old companion of the boys, had shown a suspicious activity when the boys first disappeared, trying to get their parents to employ him in a search for them.

It was afterward believed that Woodward had killed the boys, believing they had robbed their father as he had tried to induce them to do. A verdict is expected by tonight.

CITY NEWS.

As taste is the standard of beauty, so are quality and price the standard of cheapness and dearth; one article may be dear at 5 cents, while another may be cheap at $100! It is the value given for the money which decides whether the thing you buy may be dear or cheap! So say the CRAWFORD STORE, and we think their argument is sound logic!

THE MAN ON HORSEBACK

O, the Rose of Granada was blooming full-blown,
And she laughed at the suitors who thought her their own;

'Till there came from Morocco the Moor Ala Jaerr,
And he forced from his spear head the horse tails in air.

Saying, "I am to me lady,
For hither I've come,
O, Rose of Granada,
To make thee my own."

This pretty poem chronicles the first great victory of the man on horseback. In the time since the Moor Ala Jaerr rode up to Granada, the man on horseback has enjoyed undisputed sway in this big round world. Not much else is required of a man in this day if he rides well. "He rides well," they said of Buffalo Bill to Queen Victoria, and she received him straightway. A western horseman, who can rope and tie a steer in 34 seconds, is the subject of an illustrated story in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Joe Mulhatten is evidently in Mexico. Certainly no one but Joe could be behind the story which comes from there that in an old cave of the ancient religionists a natural gas jet, left burning by Aztec priests, has been found still illuminating the cavern with its bright flames. But there is another story from Mexico, concerning its participation in the St. Louis World's Fair. A page in colors on this subject in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

O, a wonderful stream is the river Time. And a wonderful lot of drift—of men and craft, of the sun and dart. We see on its tide and rift.

You can just sit on the bank and see some of the strange rotam of life float by in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. A man and woman who have engaged in a unique contest for their children: a St. Louis family, in which the first girl baby in four generations has just been born; the tragic life story of the recently slain "California" woman; and still other unusual stories next Sunday.

Good. One always goes out on his state on the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

THE TRADE EVENT OF THE 20TH CENTURY. TWO COLOSSAL CLOTHING SCOOPS.

PLAINLY PUT—THE FACTS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

By a characteristic stroke of enterprise which garnishes the fame of St. Louis—and makes the name of FAMOUS synonymous with all that's daringly progressive in modern merchandising—we captured—and closed out—the entire stock of those celebrated makers of men's finest clothing—

B. KUPPENHEIMER & CO., Chicago, Ill.

Leaving not a single Suit or Overcoat behind. The Kuppenheimer guaranteed shape-retaining clothing is too well known throughout the entire continent to call for any special commendation of ours. The clothiers who are permitted to handle this far-famed make boast of the fact in their ads—as well they may. We are the only clothing house in America whose purchasing capacity—and outlet—are great enough to justify the purchase—in bulk—of such an enormous stock. The price concession was, of course, great enough to enable us to place these goods at the people's disposal at a price that barely covers the cost of production. The makers stand the loss—the people reap the benefits—we merely pass the merchandise to our patrons at a slight advance on our investment. Tomorrow morning, then, we shall commence to distribute in our three stores—in Denver, Colo.; Cleveland, Ohio, and Famous, St. Louis—the greatest bargains of this age and country in the finest Up-to-Date Suits and Overcoats that were ever made for the protection and adornment of men.

NOTE PARTICULARLY In addition to the regular shapes, these garments come in a full range of sizes to fit long slim men, short stout men and extra sized men up to 50-inch chest measure.

PREIS, LEVY & CO.'S FINEST BOYS' CLOTHING

Enters triumphantly tomorrow upon the sixth day of the most sensational selling ever experienced by Famous. We've conducted countless sales in our career—we've given our patrons some marvelous Boys' Clothing values from time to time, but never have we been able to offer garments of such exalted character for so little money. Every purchaser this week will loudly voice this same sentiment.

In spite of the past week's heavy selling the magnitude of the purchase enables us to continue this sale tomorrow with full and unbroken lots—with even greater values and with the same startling underpricing that characterized the selling early in the week.

The products of Preis, Levy & Co. cannot be compared with ordinary Clothing made for Boys—none but the best fabrics, choicest trimmings and most skilled designing talent are employed in their construction.

ADMIT THE THREE TERRITORIES.

There are indications that the pressure for statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico is becoming too strong for resistance.

The bill admitting these territories passed the House at the last session. There should be no delay in passing it through the Senate.

Partisan considerations, however, threaten to defeat the measure. It is said that these territories are likely to go Democratic if erected into states. That is no argument to be addressed to reasonable people, but it seems to be the only one employed.

President Roosevelt is quoted as saying that "he can carry them" and therefore favors their admission.

It is a poor reason to support a just demand, but if it accomplishes the purpose it is better than none. The three territories are entitled to statehood. They have the population, wealth and social conditions necessary and they have a right to self-government. It will be a great wrong if this right is denied by the Senate.

What is the House of Delegates doing to make St. Louis presentable in 1904? Nothing. What is the House of Delegates doing to make St. Louis an unusual feat in 1904? Everything it can.

PRINCES AND AMERICAN GIRLS.

The European admiration for all things American is considerably mitigated by the evident gross views entertained there concerning American women.

The Muschenhausen case is speedily followed by the yet more scandalous exposure of the Prince von Hohenzollern's attempt to buy a young New York heiress.

In this case the two persons most interested had never met, and the transaction was purely commercial. Worse still, it is alleged by one of the conspirators that the girl's mother said she was "much flattered" by the prince's offer, but declined it on the ground that her daughter was "very young." The broker tells the prince that in his opinion the lady will never marry within the lower the sun.

This is a gracious acknowledgment highly creditable to the prince, but does not improve the situation in the least.

It is evident that the beggarly but titled adventurers of Europe have conceived the belief that American girls can be had cheap. Girl and money for a title almost always besmirched and more or less genuine.

How did such a belief come to be entertained? The people of Europe seem to think all we have, including our daughters, is for sale. Have some of our girls and their mammas been in Europe?

The battleships and cruisers now building will be the best fighting ships on the sea. They will be the best until better are built, which won't be long.

MONKEY GRAMMAR.

Prof. Garner has discovered that monkey talk is ungrammatical. After it was seen in Africa studying the language and literature of the simian tribe, he makes the announcement, reluctantly, that their grammar needs editing, and that they should pay more attention to euphony in the construction of their sentences.

It is a fact that our simian relatives and friends have never had the advantage of public schools. They have had to do all their studying by the light of pine knots and the fire on the hearth, after the manner of Abraham Lincoln and other noted persons. And few of them have had the privilege of perusing the great literary works produced in late years in Indiana. Under these circumstances, the only wonder is that they have any grammar or literature at all.

It is to be hoped that the simian population will heed the well-meant remarks of Prof. Garner and brush up on their verbs, adjectives and prepositions. Now that the monkey has been admitted to the inner circle of polite society in this country, through the process of Mr. Harry Lehr, it is highly important that he fit himself to shine in this new sphere, and be prepared to make a monkey out of any capricious critic who shall presume to scoff at the use of the parts of speech.

While the President is raising the bears of Mississippi, the bear raids of Wall Street continue.

WOMEN LAW PARTNERS.

The law firm of Wickliffe & Falls of New Orleans is composed of Col. John C. Wickliffe, for 25 years a prominent member of the Louisiana bar, and Miss Rosa C. Falls, who was admitted to practice in 1901.

The firm does a general law business, but Miss Falls has built up a large clientele of women.

"Women," she says, "feel that they had rather converse with a woman than a man about personal matters, such as are frequently the subject of legal advice or suits at law."

There is an opportunity. There are women lawyers, but not many, and yet few professions offer higher rewards to integrity and ability.

If women will qualify themselves, men will see an advantage in such partnerships. Such firms would be especially attractive to women.

It is not improbable that every law firm will, in a few years, have at least one woman partner. The trust companies have taken the lead of a woman's department. Why not lawyers?

Mr. Garner's monkeys say "I haven't saw" and "I done it."

WILLIE WALLIE'S SAD FATE.

William Wallieford Wallie, late American citizen, now a subject of the British King, is not Honorable.

The court chamberlain rules.

On an unwritten law in this country any man who has been a member, senator, representative, minister plenipotentiary, justice of the peace, or has been "mentioned" for any public office is entitled to the title Honorable in his name.

William Wallie was Honorable in America because he was minister plenipotentiary to England and transferred his allegiance to the British monarch, and was mentioned in the campaign fund.

But the court chamberlain rules.

title. But the lord chamberlain says "nay." When he became an Englishman he became subject to the rules and regulations governing the use of titles and prefixes, and no American title founded merely upon the good-natured habit of entitling everybody "goes." Unless a man is a son of a peer he is not Honorable in England.

Poor Willie Wallie! With all his wealth he cannot get the English to accept his trumpery title. He wanted an earldom, then a barony would do, or, if that were not to be had, he was willing to be a baronet and bear himself called "Sir William." But no, he is denied even the honor originating in a campaign fund and American humor.

The verdict of guilty in the Butler case at Columbia marks progress in the work of purifying St. Louis. It demonstrates that there is no man among the hoodlums and bribers, who have plundered this city, too strong for the law. The verdict was in accordance with the evidence presented. There was no room for any other verdict and the 12 men who sat on the jury did their duty. The defense in all of the cases so far tried has been pitifully weak; in the Butler case there was practically no defense. Guilt was confessed by the defendant's failure to testify on the charge of attempted bribery, and his admission that he took care of his own interests in legislation. The verdict is a gratifying demonstration of the fact that sentiment in the state and in the city on the subject of bribery is in harmony.

GERMANY AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Mr. Adolphus Busch brings from Germany the gratifying intelligence that the country is much interested in the World's Fair and that the German exhibit will exceed in excellence that at the Columbian Exposition.

"It won't be so costly," said Mr. Busch, "but it will be more artistic and on a higher plane of excellence. Bulky and heavy machinery is to be superseded by fine art exhibits and displays of new scientific inventions. It will be more dignified and imposing than the Chicago display."

This interest is popular and widespread and is supported by the Emperor. The German commissioner to the World's Fair is on his way to the country, accompanied by the architect appointed to supervise the construction of the German buildings.

The activity of the Germans guarantees a general participation by all the principal nations of Europe. Not one can afford not to be a member of the great clearing house of ideas which assemblies in St. Louis in 1904.

St. Louis will be the capital city of the world that year. Every citizen should do what he can to make the place worthy of the honor.

Rose Marion says in the Post-Dispatch Thursday that the men at the luncheon "weren't rude to anybody but themselves." That was because Rose Marion was looking at them. Had she not been there their admirable self-restraint would not have been visible. If women would eat at the luncheons, it would mend men's manners, improve the food and insure better service. Besides, it would mitigate the ferocious hurry. In other words, the luncheons would be transformed and become comely dining rooms.

Chicago has voted by a majority of 136,802 for a state referendum; by a majority of 137,790 for a local referendum, and by a majority of 137,034 to instruct the Illinois legislature to forward as best it can an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of United States senators by the people. Evidently a good many of the Chicagoans have taken to thinking.

The Italian invention which does away with mail carriers, and automatically collects, transfers and delivers mail matter with greater speed than any railway train can convey it, may reduce letter postage to half a cent. There will certainly be a rush to see it if it is exhibited at the World's Fair.

Kansas legislators receive 15 cents a mile from the state to pay their railroad fare while they ride on free passes, but Kansas is not the only state where the legislators are continually "honored" by the railroad companies while "doing" the commonwealth.

Republican Representative Perkins of the Rochester, N. Y., district will introduce in Congress a bill to repeal the duty on coal, hides and meat, and he doesn't think the country will collapse if the bill shall pass.

The Rev. Dr. Hiecox's remark that "it is not in keeping with the dignity of a President of the United States to be running all over the country shooting some living creature" will not save any Mississippi bears.

When Dan'l Boone shot a bear he carved in the tree bark, "D. Boone killed a bear," and added the date. But it would take too many trees to record the achievements of T. R.

The astonishing statement is now made that the Republicans stole the state of Kansas in the recent election. Anyhow, it is certain that the Democrats did not steal it.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

Why should not dogs as well as horses ride on street cars? J. P. M. may be something of a Caesar, but he is more of a squeaker.

It is remarkable that the Arlund-Wetmore trouble didn't happen in Chicago.

Don't tell your troubles to the stamp clerk, even if you can't find the polioeman.

"Back to the cemetery!" says the trolley for the wagon load of people returning from Calvary.

Newport will doubtless hasten to entertain Prof. Garner, who has photographed a lot of the best monkey talk.

The governor of Massachusetts is feeling greatly puffed up because Thanksgiving was invented in Massachusetts.

Many thousands of passengers are not disturbed by the reports that diamond thieves are operating on the street cars.

The woman of Endor is not called a witch by the Bible. She seems to have been a medium who had neglected to take out a $100 license.

It may become the custom of duellists, one to light out for the North Pole, and the other to hustle to the South Pole as soon as the challenge is delivered.

Linotypes often complain of the illegible writing of newspaper men. They ought to see once the kind of handwriting used by railroads on freight manuscripts.

The two United States senators who sat down to a Hawaiian banquet of roast dog, and enjoyed it, supposing it to be roast pig, can no longer look a vegetarian in the face.

Mr. Newman, who swims two miles with both legs out of the water, should not fail to be on hand in St. Louis in 1904. He would draw a big crowd to both banks of the Mississippi.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

H. M. D.—Sarah Bernhardt is a Jewess.

READER.—You can reach all the men you name by addressing them simply New York.

G. G. N. AND MANY OTHERS.—It is impossible to give the votes of Kansas, Ohio, etc. The returns so far are of pluralities. Watch the Post-Dispatch for official figures.

W. SCOTT.—You can get full and authoritative information concerning naturalization from the clerk of court where you apply for papers. Don't think you can get full papers at once on the case you present, but it's a long question.

SCHOOLGIRL.—Should the President and vice-president both die, the secretary of state would succeed. After him comes the chief justice of the United States, and then the speaker of the House. Should the secretary of state not be a native born citizen, he would be passed over and the next in succession, the secretary of the treasury, would succeed. The cabinet officers are always of the President's party, since he selects them. But even if they should not be, it would not affect the rule of succession to the presidency.

INQUIRER.—"Why does not our Christmas day and New Year's day come on one and the same day, since Christmas day is our Lord's birthday and we are supposed to reckon time from his birth; then why is there one week's time difference in the two days?" It is a perfectly reasonable question, but nobody can answer it so far as the answer knows. If you will look in your New Testament you will observe that the birth of Christ is set down as in "the fourth year before the common account called Anno Domini." The calendar as adopted by Julius and reformed several times does not pretend to coincide exactly with Christian era. The nativity is by no means fixed. There is a good account of the calendar in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Honorable Effort.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Honorable William Wallieford Wallie, late American citizen, now a subject of the British King, is not Honorable.

The court chamberlain rules.

On an unwritten law in this country any man who has been a member, senator, representative, minister plenipotentiary, justice of the peace, or has been "mentioned" for any public office is entitled to the title Honorable in his name.

William Wallie was Honorable in America because he was minister plenipotentiary to England and transferred his allegiance to the British monarch, and was mentioned in the campaign fund.

But the court chamberlain rules.

HOW TO READ YOUR SWEETHEART'S TRAITS

The Oval Face
Which Artists Consider
Most Beautiful

Look at your sweetheart critically, and if her face forms a perfect oval you may consider that she will not always be constant.

The oval-faced woman is a girl for a man to tie to. But you need not be discouraged if you happen to have given your affection to a round-faced girl.

The round-faced type is one whose face pretty nearly describes a circle.

The round-faced girl is the most cheerful sort of a companion. Oftener than otherwise she is fair with dancing blue eyes and glints of gold in her hair. She is witty and men adore her.

But whether she be fair or dark the round-faced girl is a jolly, happy-go-lucky creature, and usually has a love affair on hand.

She is an ardent lover while the spell lasts, but she is not always constant.

The pear-shaped is the most spiritual of the four types, and it is also regarded as the most intellectual. It is the expansion of the upper part of the face, particularly the forehead, which is the dome of thought, that gives the pyramidal, or pear-shaped, outline to the face.

but for womanly virtues she is pre-eminent.

Poems You Ought to Know

THE FOOL'S PRAYER.

The royal feast was done; the king
Sought some new sport to banish care,
And to his fester cried: "Sir Fool,
Kneel now, and make for us a prayer!"

The jester doffed his cap and bells
And stood the mocking court before;
They could not see the little smile
Behind the painted grin he wore.

He bowed his head, and bent his knee
Upon the monarch's silken stool;
His pleading voice arose: "O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!"

"No pity, Lord, could change the heart
From red with wrong to white as wool;
The rod must heal the sin, but, Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!"

"'Tis not by guilt the onward sweep
Of truth and right, O Lord, we stay;
'Tis by our follies that so long
We hold the truth from heaven away."

"These clumsy feet, still in the mire,
Go crushing blossoms without end;
These hard, well-meaning hands we thrust
Among the heart-strings of a friend."

"The ill-timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung!
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung!"

"Our faults no tenderness should ask.
The chastening stripes must cleanse them all;
But for our blunders—oh, in shame
Before the eyes of Heaven we fall."

"Earth bears no balm for mistakes;
Men crown the knave and scourge the fool
That did his will; but Thou, O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!"

The room was hushed; in silence rose
The king, and sought the gardens cool,
And walked apart, and murmured low,
"Be merciful to me, a fool!"

JUST A MINUTE WITH THE POST-DISPATCH POET AND PHILOSOPHER

SPRING IN NOVEMBER.

(SONNET.)

'Tis spring, I know, and nothing else is Doing; 'tis spring, I know, and every one complains;

The weather-harvester has lost the rain,
And frigid waves that lately seemed a-brewing

In other climes are now marks pursuing.
Our coal is still unburnt; our tender veins
Are yet unchilled by winds that shake the panes.

Our dread of winter and its storms resolving.

The skies are blue; the day is bright
and cheerful;

The sun in glorious splendor beams on high;

The coal man is morose and almost tearful;

The haberdasher heaves a weary sigh.
Will winter never come? We all are fearful;

But never mind—we'll get it by and by!

Deserted Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Will some kindly inform me through the columns of the Post-Dispatch whether there is not some charitable institution in St. Louis willing to accept children whose father has deserted the mother, leaving her helpless with six little ones. She is willing to work, and has struggled bravely to do so, but cannot, hampered as she is with the little ones. I personally applied in her behalf to the institutions mentioned in the city directory, but they all have some cast-iron rules regarding accepting children whose parents are separated but not divorced. Today the poor mother writes me that she cannot keep the children, and as a last resort she will have to place three of them, two girls, aged 9 and 7, and a boy of 4 in the House of Refuge, and the baby, aged 2 years, in the Bethesda Home. It seems to me we should have an institution public spirited enough and free from so-called religious restrictions to admit children so into temporary care, and then, if the mother is well-reared and refined, but forced, through their father's business, to the House of Refuge for shelter.
St. Louis.

Painless Slaughter of Cattle.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Doubtless the flippant treatment of the news regarding Mr. Samuel Fox's proposition to partly asphyxiate cattle before slaughtering them is due to the fact that the proposition appears to be impracticable. Any practicable method of painless slaughtering cattle would be deserving of the most thoughtful consideration. All humane persons deplore the brutality that accompanies killing animals for food.
Mr. Fox's proposal includes the dazing of the animal by powerful electric lights. Then darkness intervenes, the walls close on the doomed beast, a slide opens, and the animal pushes its head into a rubber bag containing the gas. Insensibility is induced, and the animal is ready for slaughter.

Might not this intricate process cause more fear and be really more painful than quick killing in the ordinary way? Perhaps the best way to avoid unnecessary pain is to make the method of slaughter as prompt and effective as it is at present in well-equipped slaughter houses.
St. Louis.

A Model Wife.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The six bachelor girls who wanted to know, are informed that a "model wife" is a woman who cook, mend and look pretty all in one breath; she must think her husband's thoughts after him, taking care not to suspect him of any thoughts he doesn't impart to her; she must believe what he tells her and not ask troublesome questions; she must be "domestic" if he is so disposed, taking care to stay at home when he is fond of society not suitable for her, but always ready to join in his pleasures when he desires her to do so. The capital fact of marriage is that the two are one. A model wife, however, will make it ten. He is the 1; she is the 0. Together, then, they make 10—this without counting the children. Any woman can be a model wife if she has Christian humility.
St. Louis.

A "Social" Drunkard.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Can any of your readers inform one who is a social drunkard (I say social because I have no craving for any kind of intoxicating liquors) how he can disgust himself with all intoxicating drinks? I have tried time and again to quit and have lost confidence of friends, employers and wife. My will power must be entirely missing. I am a workman when sober and unable to enter an institute.

St. Louis.

A Paragon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In answer to "Model Wife" inquiry, here is a recipe:
Sovereign sweetness, gentle grace, Woman's soul, angel's face; Divinely chaste, tender smile, Beaming around us all the while.

Qualities for a Wife.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Faith, hope and charity are the foundations of love. To this we add honor, virtue and invincible mental strength. Next come health, cheerfulness, gentleness and the power of submission. These are the qualities which make a model wife.

Violets in Bloom.

Advice as to Study.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
C. A. asks for advice regarding a system of study. The best system in my opinion is now carried on by the Y. M. C. A. night school. The tuition is very reasonable, a mere trifle when compared to the advantages offered in the different courses. The classes embrace history, rhetoric, languages, physics and many of the sciences as well as mathematics and chemistry. If this is unavailable it seems to me the earnest student could take up any course he might fancy and to which his inclinations and talents adapt him, and pursue his studies advantageously through the almost unlimited sources of information afforded in the Public Library. The new Werner edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, with its excellent index and cross reference guide, is also invaluable to the student. Equipped with this work alone one may acquire a fairly good education upon almost any line he may take up.

Good Words for the Captains Mullally.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Last evening I attended the wedding of Captain Mullally and Captain Lindberg of the Salvation Army at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Franklin and Grand. I felt amply repaid for the cost of my ticket and for what I contributed toward the wedding presents when the contribution baskets were passed by the groom and bride at the request of the officiating brigadier. The wedding was a most interesting and high-toned affair. I feel assured all who attended came away with a kindly feeling not only for the young husband and wife, but for the Salvation Army work in general as well. Captain Anna Lindberg is that kindly, sweet-faced Salvation lass so familiar in the downtown districts of St. Louis in recent years, where she has made a wonderful record as a "savior of the war" and has made friends of half the residents of the city. Last evening she sang for us two solos in her own clear, sweet voice and acquitted herself otherwise very bravely under circumstances usually very embarrassing to a woman.

There is not a doubt all who witnessed the marriage in addition to other thousands in St. Louis wish the bride and groom goodspeed in the life and work they are at once to undertake at Springfield, Ill. The Salvation Army is doing a grand work for humanity, and the world should not be slow to acknowledge the service of Christian endeavor its deserved place in the ranks of civilization's forces.

LIVE WITHOUT GOSSIP? NO!

Laundry Girls Rebelled at Order Which Forbade Them to Talk While at Work.

"What is life without gossip?" is the question the female employees of the Domestic Laundry at Matteson, Ill., put to their employer when the president forbade them to talk while at work. The young women rebelled against the order by threatening to strike, but the proprietor, Mr. Geary, compromised matters and work was resumed. It appears that the girls always made use of the privilege of discussing the social progress of the laundry when they came to work in the morning. Mr. Geary didn't like this, and accompanying his notice Friday morning, forbidding conversation during working hours, was the announcement that only three holidays would hereafter be granted, namely, Christmas, Thanksgiving and Fourth of July.

The girls agreed to accept the holiday ultimatum in consideration of their employer yielding on the other instruction.

VON DER AHE'S LIVE IN PEACE.

Mrs. Von der Ahe's Suit for Divorce Dismissed—Couple Have Become Reconciled.

The suit for divorce instituted by Mrs. Annie K. Von der Ahe against her husband, Chris Von der Ahe, erstwhile baseball magnate and owner of the old St. Louis Browns, was dismissed in Judge Hough's division of the circuit court, Friday morning, for failure of the plaintiff to file security for costs. The petition states that the Von der Ahes were married in Alton, Ill., Aug. 13, 1898, and separated May 22, 1920. The suit was filed two days after the separation, the chief allegation being infidelity. Mr. and Mrs. Von der Ahe, through the mediation of friends, have since become reconciled and are living together in peace. With the dismissal of the suit the last vestige of the estrangement vanishes.

The Newest Nutriment

In making breakfast foods, as in all other things, progress counts. The last new food has the advantage of the mistakes and the successes of all others.

Norka Malted Oats is the best grain and the best way of preparing it. It is a brain food which has a crisp, dainty, appetizing flavor, which never fails on the appetite, which supplies all the necessary elements to body building and which can be served at a moment's notice in a hundred different dainty ways, for it's Thoroughly Cooked.

Nothing you can put on your pantry shelf will be more worth while, 15 cents for a full pound package at your grocer's, and a pound goes farther if it is because it is more vitally nutritious. Norka Malted Oats is the only grain food which is sealed in an air-tight, damp-proof, paraffine wrapper with a patent clasp. This preserves the contents in their original purity and crispness. Norka Oats stay fresh as long as the package is unopened.

Norka Malted Oats

CASCARETS

CANDY CATHARTIC

THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

ANNUAL SALE

10,000,000 BOXES

Greatest in the World

A MILLION AMERICAN NURSING MOTHERS keep themselves and their babies in splendid health with CASCARETS Candy Cathartic. The wonderful things CASCARETS do for mamas and their babies have become known through kind words of those who have tried them, and so the sale is now nearly A MILLION BOXES A MONTH. Mama takes a CASCARET, baby gets the benefit. The sweet, palatable tablet, eaten by the nursing mother, regulates her system, increases her flow of milk, and makes her milk mildly purgative. Baby gets the effect diluted and as part of its natural food—no violence—no danger—perfectly natural results. No more sour curds in baby's stomach, no more wind colic, cramps, convulsions, worms, restless nights. All druggists, 1

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND MARKET DOINGS

NO HEAVY DECLINES IN THIS MARKET WEAKENED LATE IN THE DAY

BUT ONE STOCK, GERMANIA TRUST, WAS SENT LOWER.

TRANSIT SOLD AGAIN AT $28

Coal and Coke Common a Shade Better, After Selling at $63—Industrials Were Very Quiet.

Today's local stock market, for the most part, was a dull affair, and until a few minutes of the close excessive idleness had characterized the proceedings. A drive against Germania Trust caused a dip from $27 to $26, for no apparent reason. There was scattered selling and the stock as fairly well taken at the deflection. Other trust company shares were uniformly lower, though Title Guaranty Trust maintained its figures of par and small lots were snapped up at that quotation. In coal, Missouri and Commonwealth were quite steady. In the last mentioned stock there were no new developments advanced for the sudden strength evidenced of late.

Third National Bank was quite a firm feature at $31, with $33.50 asked. A significant incident was the offering of a substantial lot of St. Louis & Suburban stock at $7. There were no bidders for this stock, which has been quite dormant for months past.

Central Coal & Coke common sold at $62, with more wanted at $62.25. There was a slight advance for this stock Friday, but it was evident that there was a broader demand for the stock at going figures. In general the miscellaneous list, of the local board showed little or no development from previously existing figures and the range of prices, with few exceptions, well maintained.

Four Thousand Godfathers.
The London Tailor.
Mrs. Irene of Prussia is better known in the matter of godfathers than any in the world. She can boast of no less than 4,000 godfathers and how she came to obtain so many is a pretty story. When she was born she was destined to an end, and was considered just at the time of her mother's father, Prince Henry of Prussia, was a soldier and man of the regiment commanded to stand godfathers of the princess, whom he named Irene (Princess Irene of the end of the year.

FIFTY NEW CARS WITH POWER BRAKE

SERVICE ON OLIVE STREET TO BE MATERIALLY IMPROVED.

TO HAVE BETTER SCHEDULE

Will Run at Half-Minute Intervals Instead of Three-Quarters—140 Cars.

By an addition of fifty new cars on the Olive street line within the next week the St. Louis Transit Co. expects to reduce the running schedule from three-quarters to half-minute intervals.

There are now 90 cars in operation on the Olive street line. The increase to 140 will remove the danger of congestion and conduce towards the convenience of the public. The new cars are larger than the old type. They will seat 45 persons each, and over a hundred people can be crowded on in an emergency. They are four inches wider than the old ones, 45 feet long and the rear double platform, with rail partition, measures 6 feet.

The interior of the cars is of solid cherry finish, the ceiling being of bird's-eye maple. The seats, of rattan back, are not reversible. The cars are mounted on Vice-President Dupont's trucks, the most improved extant, permitting of lowering of the cars on a platform. They will be heated with latest pattern stoves as the electric heaters have not proved a success. A popular feature will be the increase of lighting facilities on the new cars. Fifteen lamps will be suspended from the ceiling and sides of each coach at intervals of two feet.

Every car of the new pattern is to be equipped with power brakes, as is demanded by the late ordinance and to increase the speed of the service the number of motors on each car is increased from two to four. This will give more speed in starting, where the most time is lost.

Special Friday and Saturday: Boys' and youths' extra strong quilted bottom shoes, $1.75 and $2.00 values, for $1.25. G. H. Boehmer Shoe Co., 410 N. Broadway.

FOUND SON AFTER 7 YEARS

Parents of Fred Sager Learned of His Whereabouts Through His Injury.

As a result of the publicity attending the shooting of Fred Sager by his friend, James McCracken, near Edwardsville, Ill., Monday night, Sager has been reunited with his parents, whom he had not seen for seven years.

Sager ran away from the family home near Creve Coeur Lake seven years ago. In the interim his parents never heard of him. They did not know whether he was dead or alive.

The publication of the shooting by McCracken of his friend, Sager, head of a charcoal party, was read by Sager's parents. They thought he might be their missing son. Thursday the father went to Edwardsville. He found that the injured youth was his son and there was a pathetic reunion. Fred Sager consented to return home and is now with his parents.

'FRISCO BUYS 2 MORE ROADS

Acquires the St. Louis & Gulf and the St. Louis, Memphis & Southeastern.

It is officially announced that the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad system has purchased the St. Louis & Gulf Railroad, a line of about 350 miles in the St. Francis basin, and also the St. Louis, Memphis & Southeastern Railroad, which has about 180 miles of road in operation and about 180 under construction.

The St. Louis & Gulf comprises the former Honok line, owned by Louis Houck of Cape Girardeau. They are west of the Mississippi river and south of Cape Girardeau. The portion already built runs south from Cape Girardeau towards Memphis. The part now under construction will be finished within six months and connected with the Frisco line.

These lines will give the Frisco a direct low-grade line between St. Louis and Memphis. It is also announced that the Frisco will have a direct line to Chicago via the Chicago & Eastern Illinois. This route for the Frisco, however, has not yet been determined.
